Minutes

1. Call to order

Tobias calls the meeting to order and gives a brief welcome.
2. Approval of the Agenda and General Assembly Committee

Tobias proposes himself as the chair, Biligtsaikhan as minute taker, Justin to assist with the website, and Paola to operate the livestream. Together, these four would form the General Assembly Board if approved. Tobias invites those present to offer proposals to change the General Assembly agenda. There are none, so he invites a motion to approve the General Assembly Board and agenda.

The motion is moved by Justin and seconded by Oleksii.

The motion passes.

3. Approval of the minutes of the May 23, 2020 Online General Assembly

Tobias invites a motion to approve the minutes.

The motion is moved by Justin and seconded by Shobhendra.

The motion passes.

4. Report of the IAPSS President

Justin expresses that COVID-19 has posed some significant challenges for the entire world and IAPSS has been affected as well. As indicated at the last General Assembly, the 2020 World Congress was cancelled due to the pandemic. This year, IAPSS is hoping to transition events online instead. In terms of what is going well, the transition to online events has been very successful. There have been a large number of online events, from smaller sized panels to larger sized conferences involving not just IAPSS Global, but the IAPSS Regions and Student Research Committees have been organizing events autonomously. IAPSS Global has collaborated on events with multiple regions and Student Research Committees, including consultations for the United Nations 75th Anniversary Campaign to gather youth perspectives on international decision-making, as well as a 24 hour telethon on the politics on homlessness and various areas of intersection. Justin expresses appreciation for those who helped out with these events. IAPSS Asia held a virtual conference in collaboration with a university in Mongolia. We have been posting these events and other online content on the IAPSS YouTube channel on a regular basis, usually weekly. While IAPSS’ YouTube following is modest compared to the Facebook page, it has grown quite a bit this year, increasing from around 60 subscribers in January 2020 to around 340 at the time of this General Assembly, an increase of over five times. If this continues to increase in the future, IAPSS may be able to earn a little bit of ad revenue from YouTube to supplement its other activities. In addition, IAPSS has established a number of partnerships with other organizations beyond the conventional academic associations like the International Political Science Association, the International Studies Association, the European Consortium for Political Research, and the Asia-Europe
Foundation. These new organizations include the Algoma University Students’ Union, which is located in Canada; Art Beyond Sight, an organization helping those with visual impairments; the Canadian Political Science Students’ Association, which is in the process of becoming an association member but the partnership model fits better for them as they rebuild their organization; Council for Sustainable Europe, which among other things focuses on the politics of outer space; Disability Unite, an advocacy group for persons with disabilities; the European Academy of Diplomacy; the National Model Organization for Islamic Cooperation in Pakistan; we have renewed our partnership with Politico; The World is Watching, an organization focused on alleviating racial inequalities around the world; Voters Without Borders, an organization focused on expanding voting rights for EU citizens; and Women in Foreign Policy. IAPSS looks forward to collaborating with these organizations and a number have helped us with various events. We are currently in the process of solidifying partnerships with other organizations, including UN2020, the World Federation of United Nations Associations, as well as Music for SDGs, a group that performs music at various UN events. IAPSS has expanded its networks into various international fora. IAPSS is a voting member of Cívicos, supported the Erasmus500 Campaign to expand resources for students doing exchange programs through Erasmus.

IAPSS partnered with the UN75 Campaign; became a member of the United States Youth, Peace and Security Campaign; as well as Bridging the Gap Alliance; youth focused networks like YOUNGO and YOUNGA; and we have maintained our status with UNESCO as well as the Informal Forum of International Student Organisations. We are exploring the possibility of joining other networks as well, including the UN Global Compact. At the May 2020 General Assembly, IAPSS members voted to form a new association membership model, so when a student association joins IAPSS, all of their individual members get voting rights within IAPSS to ensure that IAPSS has grassroots support and engagement, and to ensure that students are informed about what IAPSS is doing. We now need to renegotiate with all of our association members, which is a lengthy process, but we have been successfully done it with six organizations so far, including the Montenegrin Association of Political Science Students, which had not been officially part of IAPSS since 2015; Politistes Sorbonne in Paris, France; the Responsibility to Protect Student Coalition from Brisbane, Australia that has not been part of IAPSS before; some old association members that have helped establish IAPSS in 1998 such as SV Ismus and SV Machiavelli in the Netherlands; the Universidad Nacional Micaela Bastidas de Apurimac in Peru. These new association memberships appear to be the way of the future, since about a year ago IAPSS declared itself to be in a Membership Crisis, since while there was a lot of engagement on social media platforms and events, in terms of the formal standardized memberships was not comparing with our network of about 200,000 students, so we really needed to finish the transition from just having association members like we had ten years ago to having individual members as well. This new association membership model has allowed IAPSS to increase its members, so in terms of the ones that are officially standardized, we started the mandate at around 370, the lowest point in the Membership Crisis, but we have now increased this by about 250% to over 900. While we technically have over 199,000 to go, we are making good progress and he believes this new association membership model is the way to go, and he would go as far as to say that the Membership Crisis is reaching its conclusion and has been just about resolved, and it is now a matter of renegotiating with the remaining associations and ensure that the current association memberships are retained in future years. In addition, on the academic front, IAPSS has expanded or rebranded itself. IAPSS’ blog, A Different View, has rebooted and is now publishing blog posts again. There are two new Student Research Committees in the works, one on the politics of outer space and one on accessibility and inclusion. This will allow IAPSS to expand its ability to Student Research Committee topics so they can collaborate with their peers around the world. In terms of challenges, IAPSS has grappled with the same challenges it has faced throughout the 2010s. As was mentioned in May 2020, as IAPSS team members are volunteers instead of paid employees, it generally increases the rate at which teams members resign, as it is difficult to go to school, work, and do IAPSS. This mandate, the IAPSS Treasurer, Secretary General, and Vice President for Regional Affairs resigned. Fortunately, we have been able to find good interims for these positions and we will be voting on both retiring the Vice President for Regional Affairs position since the regions are now more autonomous, as well as voting on a number of by-election positions to fill vacancies to confirm the interims as the newly elected representatives to move forward. On the whole however, IAPSS has expanded its team with the new Student Research Committees, and expansion of regional and global teams as we continue to develop new infrastructure. We are now over 150 team members worldwide and this number will likely continue to increase as we plan for future events like the 2021 World Congress, which is planned to be virtual. This virtual event will allow for more participants to attend and we would be able to decrease the price from the usual over 80 Euros to hopefully less than 50 Euros. We are hoping to continue regional and global events on YouTube or livestreamed on Facebook and shared on various platforms. Another challenge we have experienced is the transition of financial accounts. More efforts should have been put into transferring these accounts in previous years, as we are still trying to get access to bank accounts, credit cards, and the PayPal account. We hope to alleviate these issues in the next month or month and a half. In terms of more good news, we created an IAPSS Subreddit for those who engage on that platform. IAPSS is growing as an organization through the motions presented here as we continue to improve our decision-making processes and weather out COVID-19. In the future, we will be establishing infrastructure for submitting to grants and establishing sponsorships. He thanks IAPSS team members, members at large, partners, and other associations as IAPSS navigates one of the most challenging times in its history. Students of the future will likely look back to this year to find out how we adapted.

5. Legal Framework Amendments and Motions

a. Motion 1: Honorary Membership for Professor Marcel Wissenburg

The motion is moved by Justin and seconded by Paola.

Rory motions to amend the motion to also grant honorary membership to Makoto Okubo from Music for SDGs.

Rory states that Makoto helped a lot with the IAPSS telethon. He helped on standby with each region, ensured there was music for the event, helped out with technology and programming, and he is interested in contributing to a potential new Student Research Committee on political communication.
Justin states that the amendment is friendly.

Max asks that considering honorary membership has historically been the highest honor IAPSS can give, are there any criteria for association membership? It is typically given to senior academics. In this context, should there perhaps be some criteria. IAPSS currently has three honorary members, and these contributions are supposed to be significant. If the contribution is not academic, it can still merit the award, but in this case there are many other senior scholars who would be deserving of honorary membership.

Justin replies that honorary membership in his understanding does not have any set criteria and has generally been based on an individual’s service to IAPSS as an organization. Marcel Wissenburg looks after IAPSS’ physical mail in the Netherlands and is an experienced scholar. While Makoto Okubo may not be a scholar, he has a lot of practical experience with the United Nations and while he does not publish articles, he has contributed a lot in terms of music and intersections between music and politics and music and international cooperation. Makoto has also helped IAPSS during a point in its history where we have faced significant challenges and have been adapting to online format. The 24 hour telethon and other online events were tests to see if we could do online events successfully to pave the way toward a World Congress in 2021 where students pay tickets to attend an online event, as we were not sure if this would be possible when the 2020 World Congress was cancelled. For the telethon, Makoto was there for the majority of the 24 hours and provided assistance to IAPSS, helping us develop new capacities as an organization. At a future General Assembly perhaps in 2021, we can look into forming clearer criteria for honorary membership and determine which other scholars should receive the award. Some potential individuals he can think of involve some of those Tobias interviewed in the past, including John Mearsheimer who did two videos with IAPSS sharing his views, which has garnered a lot of attention online, as well as 2018 IPSA President Ilter Turan who also took time to sit with members of IAPSS and share his views on multiple occasions and helped bring IAPSS and IPSA closer together. He agrees that others can be added to the list and we should look at criteria for what honorary membership means.

Tobias states that the above points identify as a need for more appreciation. He understands Max’s point that maybe honorary membership is not the best tool to use for every situation. He suggests that IAPSS should consider other awards like an academic achievement award or an award for someone who contributed for a certain period of time. We have to make sure that honorary membership does not give individuals unnecessary clout within the association. It may be helpful to see honorary membership not be given to someone with political motivations in the association and we should consider different award schemes.

The motion passes as amended.

b. Motion 2: Revisions to Committee Structures

The motion is moved by Justin and seconded by Paola.
Justin states that as IAPSS is growing, some of these committees need to be integrated into the larger departments. Some of these committees have three members and we have needed to bring more team members in to help or there was overlap with other departments, so this oversees that integration into various departments so they are under the direct supervision of various elected representatives within IAPSS who oversee these departments. We will be retiring three of these committees.

The motion passes.

c. Motion 3: Retiring the Vacant Vice President for Regional Affairs Position

The motion is moved by Justin and seconded by Shobhendra.

Justin explains that this mandate, there was an early resignation of the Vice President for Regional Affairs. This was partly due to different visions of Regional Chairs and the Vice President for Regional Affairs, as at the May 2020 General Assembly, members voted to give the regions more autonomy. The Regional Chairs are elected now. It seems that this supervisory role is no longer needed, as the regional chairs have been meeting autonomously. The chairs have largely took turns chairing these meetings and did not need a Vice President for Regional Affairs and organized their events and conferences autonomously. This has led us to believe that this Executive Committee position is no longer needed. If we ever need one in the future, we can always create one at a future General Assembly.

The vote passes.

d. Motion 4: Detailing the Role of the Advisory Board

The motion is moved by Justin and seconded by Ginisha.

Justin states that at the last General Assembly, IAPSS Latin America and the Caribbean Chair Marcos Pena moved a motion to clarify the role of the Advisory Board, and it was decided that more time was needed to revise it. This current motion is a revised version that was completed in consultation with various internal stakeholders including the current Advisory Board to build from the previous motion and make sure that we have clear processes for what the Advisory Board does and how it operates, so things like keeping accurate records, ruling in certain disputes like an election dispute, serving as the appeal body of IAPSS, and interpreting the guiding documents in cases where the laws of the country where IAPSS is incorporated in does not provide a clear answer, so mainly with our Regulations and Policies. There were a few cases where the Advisory Board has helped by providing information or ruling on certain disputes. This motion would help standardized procedures and base them on a rule of precedent so in future years if there is a similar case, the Advisory Board can look to past rulings and take them into account when making decisions. The Advisory Board consists of usually three members elected annually at the General Assembly.
Thomas asks for clarity on the motion. Are we establishing the Advisory Board as an adjudicatory body on how rulings should take place in IAPSS?

Justin replies that the Advisory Board already has this role, but the issue is that there are not a lot of rules outlining how they should act, what their functions are, and what the limits of their power are. They could be perhaps considered as a quasi-judicial branch of IAPSS that can make decisions where the politics within IAPSS may lead to other positions being biased. The Advisory Board would strive to alleviate this bias as much as possible when needed. It has already had this kind of role and the motion would just provide more details on what the roles are.

The motion passes.

e. Motion 5: Country for Relocation

The motion is moved by Thomas and seconded by Justin.

Justin explains that at the last General Assembly, members voted to task the Executive Committee to find a country to relocate to. IAPSS is currently located in the Netherlands, which has posed a few challenges in recent years, including every time we amend our statutes, we have to pay a notary to authorize them, which has been expensive. In order to pass amendments to these guiding documents, the amendments have to be in Dutch, so the English version is the unofficial version. Not many members speak Dutch so they are limited in putting motions forward to reform IAPSS. At the previous General Assembly, we narrowed things down a bit. The United Kingdom and United States were ruled out due to issues with the journals and indexing if they were located there and other opportunities the journals have access to. In addition, as IAPSS operates in English, we were looking for a country where proceedings and guiding documents could take place in English. We looked at online accessibility so no matter where IAPSS members are elected from, they would still be able to provide updates to the Chamber of Commerce in the location country as needed instead of having to mail documents or at worst, fly there and deal with those officials in person. We came up with Canada as the best option and we propose this option to the members. We also met with the International Political Science Association this mandate and they moved to Canada, particularly to the city of Montreal, and they mentioned that nonprofits that move there may be eligible for funding that would support paid staff for the first few years of operation, and they indicated that this would be good for helping our organizations collaborate more closely. They also suggested that we may be able to have our base of operations as the same university that they are located in. As a previous plan was to incorporate the Regions as nonprofits, there may be a possibility to keep the Dutch association as IAPSS Europe and apply to Europe-specific grants and opportunities. This could be an opportunity to make IAPSS more accessible, as we may not always have someone from the Netherlands on the Executive Committee, and this would allow for updates to be provided online from anywhere in the world in a way that is more cost-effective.
Thomas asks that Ireland was also suggested at the last General Assembly. Is there potential to move there as well?

Justin replies that Ireland was also considered and would allow us to apply for EU grants. However it did not seem to be very accessible online and we may have needed an Executive Committee member to travel there in person to sort things out.

Thomas asks if just Canada is being proposed.

Justin answers that at the last General Assembly, members tasked the Executive Committee to find which country would be the best fit, and this is what the Executive Committee recommends.

Tobias asks Justin to explain what this means in terms of moving, possible financial risk, and if a plan would be presented at the next General Assembly.

Justin states that if this vote passes, the Executive Committee would have to figure out how to complete the move, which would involve creating a new non-profit in Canada. IAPSS does not necessarily have nonprofit status in the Netherlands, but is classified as an association, which made IAPSS ineligible for a number of grants and opportunities specific to nonprofit organizations. This would help clear that up as well. In terms of the initial costs to incorporate a nonprofit under the Canada Not-for-profit Corporations Act would be a few hundred Canadian dollars, and the main difference would be that IAPSS would have to submit a tax return through the online system once a year. IAPSS would likely not have to pay much taxes given how much revenue it generates. In terms of a timeline, it varies, but based on other precedents in Canada with other student governments, this may take up to a year or a year and a half. At the next General Assembly, we would likely provide an update. IAPSS would also need to create a new Canadian bank account, which would probably be the longest part. The easiest part would likely be the registration itself, which involves filling out a form. The things we would need a lawyer to change would be things like the organization name and other bullet points about the organization. The guiding documents would be separate from this. This vote would be to task the Executive Committee with making the move and at the next General Assembly we will provide an update. It would likely not be completed by then, but hopefully within the next year to year and a half. The old association would likely be transitioned to IAPSS Europe. So, in terms of the cost, it would be a few hundred Canadian dollars, so let's just say a few hundred Euros. To put this into perspective, to change the statutes a couple years ago, it was a few thousand Euros to amend our statutes. Amending the statutes in the Netherlands with the notary was more expensive than creating a new nonprofit in Canada and IAPSS has the funds to create the new nonprofit.

The motion passes with an over 80% majority in favour.

f. Motion 6: Codifying Established General Assembly Precedents

The motion is moved by Justin and seconded by Ginisha.
Justin states that in Robert’s Rules of Order, the chair is not able to move, vote on, or second motions. In IAPSS, the chair is an IAPSS member and it has been a convention that the chair has in the past voted, moved, and seconded motions. This motion codifies this exception to Robert’s Rules so everyone paying an IAPSS membership can participate democratically.

The motion passes.

g. Motion 7: By-Elections

The motion is moved by Oleksii and seconded by Rose.

Oleksii states that the motion would allow for by-elections to be held outside the General Assembly so they can take place more than twice a year. Due to the frequency of resignations, interim positions have often needed to be appointed and would usually work for a few months before voting, which puts them at an advantage over anyone else who wanted to run. This motion ensures that elections are held within two months after the position becomes vacant. The Secretary General would oversee by-elections according to regular election procedures. If a General Assembly is due to happen within two months after a position becomes vacant, the by-election is not held and the position would be elected at the General Assembly. This would apply to any elected position within IAPSS.

The motion passes.

6. Elections – (candidate presentations, questions, and voting)
a. Treasurer

Shobhendra Srivastava is the sole candidate.

Shobhendra states that he is working as an interim treasurer. He has been part of IAPSS for about four months. He started as interim Vice President for Programs. He has a finance background and has worked in finance for 13 years. He currently works in corporate mergers and acquisitions for global companies. He is based in the Netherlands and is familiar with working in this country. As treasurer, he would like to focus on cleaning up records, as the last treasurer was not able to keep up with this. There are some backlogs in terms of access to certain bank accounts and payments to partners. He wants to bring more transparency to IAPSS finances so we know where we stand in terms of finances and so we have clear budgetary goals. He would help diversify IAPSS’ revenue stream, help investigate grants from the Netherlands and the EU. If we move to Canada, he would help with similar funding opportunities here as well. There is the possibility of transitioning volunteers to employees to reduce resignation rates. He would help with regional autonomy processes including plans to incorporate the regions.

Shobhendra is elected as IAPSS Treasurer.
b. Vice President for Programs

Ginisha Dewani is the sole candidate.

Ginisha states that she is the interim Vice President for Programs. She was first appointed to Projects and Events Coordinator of IAPSS Asia and assisted as Design Coordinator in the IAPSS Global Public Relations Department. She worked at the British Council in India as the manager for art. She has engaged in academic activities as a scholar, doing her PhD in Urban Governance and Sustainability in India where she is currently based. She has three main goals for the Programs Department. We have seen some changes to events and activities in recent months, so she first wants to provide a platform for members to present their ideas. Secondly, she wants to foster sustainable relationships with partners, and thirdly, she wants to support Regional teams and all teams working together.

Thomas asks if Ginisha has plans to work with Regions to develop programs and how she plans to work with regions to develop smooth programs and different levels.

Ginisha replies that she would seek to establish a pool of partners and experts for the regional teams to draw from so they can work on the issues specific to their areas of the world. She would access current infrastructure and human resource capacities and use this information to develop strategies to improve regional operations.

Thomas suggests that Ginisha work with project coordinators in each Region and have some sort of council where she meets with them and can discuss issues affecting them.

Ginisha replies that her experience in IAPSS has taught her that it is always a team effort. She has been informed about issues through her experience on the IAPSS Asia team such as Uzbekistan, India, and Pakistan. She would provide guidance to regional project coordinators and help them with structuring events.

Rory states that she has worked with Ginisha in IAPSS and supports her candidacy. Ginisha’s spreadsheets are always organized and Rory looks forward to what Ginisha will do as Vice President for Programs.

Ginisha is elected as IAPSS Vice President for Programs.

8. Other Business

Tobias states that previous Secretary General Arushi Prasad resigned too close to the General Assembly date for a call for candidates and vote to be given with due notice, so we were unable to vote on a replacement at this General Assembly. Tobias thanks Biligtsaikhan for stepping up in the interim.
Thomas states that he has served as IAPSS Africa Deputy Chair for some time, and one of the challenges IAPSS Africa has faced has been recruitment because most political science students in sub-Saharan African have been unable to pay membership fees and attend General Assemblies. The IAPSS Africa Chair asked the last General Assembly that ways be explored to make participation more affordable to students in Africa. Maybe the General Assembly can set up a committee to help with this. The Advisory Board may be able to help in this respect. IAPSS Asia may face similar problems. If the membership can be decreased from about $10 US to $5 US, it may be better.

Justin replies that the IAPSS Africa team would be integral in helping create a strategy for the way forward. The new association membership model passed at the last General Assembly allows for more flexibility in terms of fees, but if we need to do something for individual students, we can do that as well. He proposes that the IAPSS Africa team meet with him and some of the Executive Committee members. He would welcome IAPSS Africa’s input at this meeting on what the fees should be reduced to. He suggests meeting after the end of semester break in early 2021 so a plan can be put in place so more students from IAPSS Africa can be present at the next General Assembly.

Thomas expresses appreciation with this idea of a meeting and that IAPSS Africa would be able to attend. IAPSS Africa will contact Justin to schedule a meeting.

Tobias states that the results of this plan would be of interest to the 34th General Assembly.

Justin thanks Tobias for chairing the meeting, Paola for taking care of the livestream, and Biligtsaikhan for helping with the minutes, as well as to everyone who participated.

9. Adjournment

Tobias thanks everyone who helped facilitate this meeting and those who participated.

The discussion portion of the General Assembly ends at around 16:28 CEST.

The General Assembly adjourns at the conclusion of the voting period on December 19, 2020 at 14:00 CEST.
Motions Package

Motion 5: Country for Relocation

Moved by: Justin Patrick

Whereas at the May 2020 IAPSS General Assembly, members voted to recommend that the Executive Committee explore options for relocating IAPSS;

Whereas Canada seems to be the best option because all the forms are in English, and incorporation and maintaining non-profit status can be done online;

Whereas IAPSS’ partner organization, the International Political Science Association, is currently located in Canada and may be able to provide guidance to assist with the relocation process;

Be it resolved that the General Assembly recommend that the IAPSS Executive Committee initiate the process to relocate IAPSS to Canada.

Motion 6: Codifying Established General Assembly Precedents

Moved by: Justin Patrick

Whereas there are certain conventional precedents that IAPSS uses regarding General Assemblies that do not necessarily fit with Robert’s Rules of Order, Newly Revised (the rules of order IAPSS General Assemblies operate under);

Whereas these conventional precedents are beneficial to upholding the IAPSS’ democracy, including allowing the organization to be run completely by student members instead of finding an individual from outside the organization;
Whereas since the IAPSS General Assembly chair should retain democratic rights if they have an active IAPSS membership;

Be it resolved that these conventional precedents be codified in the IAPSS Legal Framework as exceptions to Robert’s Rules of Order, Newly Revised;

Be it further resolved that these exceptions be embodied in the following amendments to Regulation 4 of the IAPSS Legal Framework:
