Summary

I like to contribute to things that shape the rapid change happening in this fast-paced world. I am curious about the trend of deglobalization, international student politics, and the United Nations. In my work, I am dedicated to finding innovative and creative methods to achieve long-term goals.

Experience

- June 2020 to Current International Association for Political Science Students
Chair of US and Canada
- I led a team of 5 coordinators, overseeing the work of each coordinator in their respective department. I developed and implemented the regional outreach strategy, connected with non-governmental and university-based organizations in North America, and worked on the fundraising goals of our regional chapter. I also actively participated in developing the Global Student Government initiative.
- December 2019 to March 2020 International Association for Political Science Students
Speakers Coordinator Assistant
- Drafting the speakers program of the World Congress 2020; Contacting and securing the presence of speakers, overseeing similar processes with IAPSS partners' speakers; Communicating with booked speakers, and arranging logistical matters (e.g. Travel and accommodation details, meetings, presentation slides).
- April 2020 to August 2021 Global Civilian Model UN Cambodia
Deputy Project Manager
- Defining master plans and work plans of the GCMUN team allying with defined project objectives and timescale; Supervising the functions of the operations and secretariat teams; Reviewing and evaluating the accomplished tasks of each team; Co-chairing and coordinating the meetings of teams and team leaders; Monitoring risk assessments.

Education

- Burman University Alberta, Canada
BA Hons: International Studies
- President of the university-based International Studies club.
  - Enrolled in the interdisciplinary Burman Scholars program.
  - Minor in Political Science.
